Keywords: Literature, Reading Interest, Islamic Education Teachers

"Book is a window of the world". The key to open it, is reading. This phrase clearly describes the benefits of reading to open and broaden one's horizon and knowledge, in order to know more about the unknown world. These activities can be done by anyone such as children, adolescents, adults, and elderly people. Reading culture is the key to the development of a nation. The ability to read and write literacy is a key requirement to build civilization because literacy skills are the key to science (Sulandari, 2016).

Reading is an important key to personal, social, economic and civic life in general (Clark & Rumbold, 2006, p. 5). Reading is also said to be part of the way to success in life. A good reader will be able to develop his or her point of view, experience and thought. Reading is also considered as a necessary skill in the world being led by information technology as it is today (Khairuddin, 2013, p. 160). Particularly in the world of education, reading is one way to gain knowledge from all over the world.

Soedarso said that reading is a complex activity by directing a large number of discrete actions, including the one who has to use the understanding and delusion, to observe and to remember (Kridalaksana, 1984). Reading is one of the most important functions in life. All learning process is based on the ability of reading, therefore the ability of reading in a community will bring the community to the condition of the learning community (learning society). The realization of a learning society will help the achievement of an intelligent nation (educated nation) that has excellent human resources (HR) so as to compete with other nations.

Referring to the data released by the Central Bureau of Statistics in 2012, as many as 91.58 percent of Indonesians aged 10 years and over prefer to watch television. Only about 17.58 percent of the population is like reading books, newspapers or magazines. This indicates that the reading interest of the Indonesian population is very low. In the same year, UNESCO launched an index of reading level of Indonesians which is only 0.001. That means, out of 1,000 residents, there is only one person who wants to read the book seriously (FAS, 2016) By 2015 the National Library conducts research in 12 provinces and 28 districts / cities covering 75 percent of the Indonesian territory, whose result indicates that the reading interest of the community also shows a 25.1 or low category (Munir, 2016). On March 9, 2016, Central Connecticut State University published their research on the world's reading interest rank, in World's Most Literate Nations data, Indonesia ranked 60th out of 61 countries, above the Botswana (Miller, n.d.).

The lack of interest in reading Indonesian society not only happens in the poor and lowly educated, but also occurs among the educated, including teachers. Some teachers feel that it is not necessary to read again because they have finished their college, or because they think that the subject is not their fields, or the reading materials are not needed in school. Even if they want to read or learn something, it is only related to the task of teaching or field of study that they received. Some even feel being forced by school demands or have to go to college again to get degree (Trimanto, 2016).

The task and role of teachers from day to day is getting heavier and heavier, along with the development and progress of science and technology. Teachers as a major component in the world of education are required to be able to balance even beyond the development of science and technology which is developed in society. Therefore, what is needed is a teacher who has the competence and has a character of cadre who always passionate in carrying out his or her professional duties innovatively (Kunandar, 2007).

By reading the teacher can gain knowledge quickly and easily because he or she can just choose a book to read, open it and start reading word-of-mouth. Therefore reading should be the main activity of teachers (Abdullah, 2016). Semiawan (2008, p. 27) said that reading can enrich experience, develop reasoning power, develop creativity, understand yourself and others, and can develop personality. Teachers should be encouraged to love reading so they will always update their insights and knowledge. By reading will be able to develop teachers' critical and creative power. Critical power and creativity are important aspects to create new and meaningful quality learning. On the other hand, by having the additional new knowledge, the teacher will always update the quality of learning.

For the context of reading culture, several studies have shown that teachers can be models or models for their students' reading habits (Cramer & Blachowicz, 1980; Burgess, Sargent, Smith, Hill, & Morisson, 2011). Teachers are the instruments in guiding students in reading habits (Huang, Tsai, & Huang, 2015). Reading teachers, according to McKool and GesPass (2009) research results, will tend to spread the insights and wisdom from the reading to the students, and will be followed by the students.

In this connection, one of the successful learning processes of Islamic education in the classroom is the existence of a significant professional competence of a teacher through reading interest in books or religious literature. Teachers of Islamic education subjects should be able to deliver the rich and comprehensive subject of Islamic education. Must follow the times, update the latest information, science and technology in order to deliver the actual and contextual material to learners. Do not let the Islamic religious education material which is taught is out of date, obsolete, not in accord with the times, and not in accord with the needs of learners (Apandi, 2016).

This is in line with Law No. 14 of 2005 article 10 on teacher competence and Permendiknas Number 16 Year 2007 on Academic Qualification and Teacher Competency Standards, it is mentioned that a subject teacher should use instructional media and learning resources relevant to the characteristics of learners and subjects Which is taught to achieve the learning objectives as a whole. Related to the source of learning, the teacher of Islamic education subjects must have creativity to support the implementation of the learning process in the classroom by using various literatures and materials related to Islamic education lessons. In relation to the above, this study focuses on studying the interest of reading the teachers of Islamic high school education subjects in high schools in Bogor and various religious literature choices that are read in order to support the learning process of Islamic education in the classroom. There are several things behind the selection of Bogor city as the target of research, the first city of Bogor is geographically closer to the central government so that automatically any information will be more quickly obtained and accessed. In addition, the city of Bogor also as one of the city supporters of the capital. Second, the dynamics of religious life in the city of Bogor is very diverse and dynamic. Of course, this impact on the knowledge of religion owned by the citizens of Bogor city will be very diverse and third, one of the teachers of Islamic High School Education in the city of Bogor became a model teacher for high school / MA Bogor. Of course, one's assessment of being a model teacher is influenced by several factors such as the ability of a teacher in developing the insight of his scientific knowledge with a lot of learning and reading.

This study aims to obtain complete information on reading interest and the variety of religious literature used by teachers of Islamic high school subjects in high school level in the city of Bogor as input to the Directorate of Islamic Education at the Directorate General of Islamic Education Ministry of Religious Affairs in In providing quality literature to improve the quality of competence and professionalism of teachers of Islamic education subjects. This creates an inclusive development of religious and nationalism.

Improving the quality of teachers' knowledge through literacy reading is important, but this has not received attention. In fact, the importance of teachers as a source of learning deserves more attention to increase the capacity of knowledge, especially for teachers of Islamic Education who have a big challenge related to socio-religious issues in this modern period. However, information on religious literature read by Islamic education teachers is limited, or even not yet available. Though this information is important for efforts to improve the quality of teacher's Islamic education itself.

This result is quite surprising, especially against 4 high school Islamic education teachers who are not at all reading books about Islam. Though they are teachers who teach and give material about Islam for their students, but do not read books related to Islam.

The results are in accordance with the interest of high school Islamic education teachers on reading religious books, with the following results: as many as 30 teachers of high school Islamic education say very interested in reading religious books, 5 high school Islamic education teachers said enough interested in reading religious books and 1 high school Islamic education teacher who said that he had little interest in reading religious books. After seeing how important it is to read religious literature, other information about where the high school Islamic education teachers add to their religious knowledge. Based on the results obtained, the teachers of Islamic education of SMA (Senior High School) have different ways to increase their religious knowledge. The table shows the variety of how to understand Islamic knowledge is as follows; Religious Knowledge, Source and Amount of Person

The above data shows the results of 36 high school Islamic education teachers, there are about 32 teachers { Islamic education of SMA (Senior High School) who still use religious books or religious literature in increasing their religious knowledge, only 4 teachers who do not use religious books or literature Religion, 3 teachers who increase their religious knowledge through watching / listening to religious broadcasts on television / radio and 1 teacher who increase their religious knowledge through social media (BBM / Whatsapp / Line / Facebook / Twitter).

Besides through religious books or religious literature, the study group either in the environment / office / business place is still the teacher's choice in increasing their knowledge as many as 17 teachers. The choice of watching / listening to religious broadcasts on television / radio became a source of religious knowledge of teachers as many as 12 teachers. Only 1 teacher uses social media (BBM / Whatsapp / Line / Facebook / Twitter) as a means to increase their religious knowledge. Of course, even though only one person, this raises the question, why a religious teacher uses only social media means in increasing his religious knowledge. Whether religious books or religious literature, existing study groups and religious broadcasts on television / radio are not worthy of being a source of religious knowledge.

Secondly, the purpose of reading religious literature. The next discussion is the goal of high school Islamic education teachers to read from religious literature. The following results are obtained; A total of 14 teachers said that the purpose and benefits of reading religious literature was to add insight; 13 teachers who said to add insight and teaching materials; 5 teachers who say for teaching materials; 2 teachers who say for da'wah material; Only 1 teacher said that in addition to to add insight and teaching materials as well as writing materials, and nd only 1 teacher did not say anything.

When viewed from these results, indicating that the goal of reading the teachers Islamic education of SMA (Senior High School) in Bogor city is very varied. The very dominant goal of teachers in reading religious literature is for academic - pragmatic. Academic is intended here as teaching materials, while the purpose of pragmatic where the purpose is used for writing materials, both in the form of books / teaching materials and scientific articles of course.

Nevertheless, there is also the goal of Islamic education teachers reading religious literature aiming theologically for preaching. When viewed from the profile of 2 teachers is very possible, considering the two teachers are actively involved in the management of a particular religious organization. So that the religious literature he read aims as an ingredient in proselytizing in society. While the rest is more pragmatic-academic.

Third, the efforts of Islamic education teachers to read and obtain religious literature. To find out what attempts by Islamic education teachers to read and obtain religious literature, first look at how Islamic education teachers acquire Islamic literature; Second what is the budget set aside from income to buy the literature in one month; Third how many high school Islamic education teachers read books about Islam in the last six months; Four Frequencies to Bookstore in the last year; The five Frequencies to the Library in the last year.

1. How to get books about Islam

To see how the knowledge of high school Islamic education teachers on the importance of reading religious literature, the basic thing to know is how the high school Islamic education teachers obtain Islamic books.

The data obtained stated that as many as 18 Islamic education teachers obtained books on Islam by buying in bookstores, 7 teachers who besides buying in bookstores also borrowed / read in public libraries, 5 teachers who only obtained Islamic books From borrowing / reading in public libraries, 4 teachers in addition to buying in bookstores and borrowing / reading in the public library also borrow books from family or friends and only 1 teacher who borrowed / read in the public library also borrow books from family or friend.

The above results show encouraging results, where teachers of Islamic education of SMA (Senior High School) in Bogor city has a variety of ways to obtain books about Islam. Whatever efforts and ways that the Islamic education teachers do deserve appreciation. In the midst of the many household needs, the teachers still set aside their income by buying Islamic books in bookstores. Borrowing / reading books on Islam in public libraries also shows that these teachers still want to spend their time borrowing and reading Islamic books in public libraries. Borrowing books from family or friends should be appreciated as an attempt to gain knowledge about Islam.

This also shows that the school literacy movement proclaimed by the Ministry of National Education Anis Baswedan, really done by the teachers Islamic education high school in the city of Bogor. Variety of efforts made above must continue to be done in order to become a habit that can be transmitted to other teachers.

2. Budget to buy Islamic book in one month

As for seeing the efforts of high school Islamic education teachers to read religious literature is to look at the budget set aside each month to buy religious books. Based on the questionnaire results, obtained the following data:

From the table above, obtained information and data that as many as 23 teachers Islamic education high school that set aside their income each month of Rp. 50.000 - Rp. 100,000 to buy Islamic books, 6 teachers who set aside their income each month more than Rp. 100,000 to buy Islamic books, 5 teachers who set aside their income each month is less than Rp. 50.000 to buy Islamic books and only 2 teachers who do not set aside their income each month to buy Islamic books. These results indicate that with the certification program for teachers, the spirit of ISLAMIC EDUCATION high school teachers in Bogor city to enrich the insights and treasures of knowledge, especially about Islam, is shown by setting aside income every month to buy Islamic books. It should be appreciated by anyone, either by the Head of School, Education Office and the Ministry of Religious city of Bogor. The spirit of setting aside income to buy a number of books, any book, should continue to be inflated by all parties.

3. How many reading books about Islam in the last six months

To see the interest of reading of the teachers of Islamic education, there are questions also given to the questionnaire that is in the last six months, how many titles of books about Islam that have been read by teachers Islamic education high school. Based on the questionnaire that has been filled, the following data are obtained: as many as 23 teachers who bought books about Islam less than 10 book titles in the last six months, 8 teachers who bought books about Islam as much as 10 - 50 books in the last six months, 4 Teachers who did not buy books about Islam in the last six months and only one teacher who bought more than 50 Islamic books.

When looking at the results of the table above, it shows that the level of care and attention of high school teachers Islamic education in Bogor is high enough in having and buying books about Islam. This is an exciting thing for the world of education, especially teachers of Islamic education, who are very concerned with knowledge about Islam. This is a valuable capital for teachers of Islamic education in high school to deliver Islamic materials for students in school.

4. Frequency to Bookstore in the last year

To see how much attention and interest of teachers Islamic education SMA Bogor city in relation to the interest of reading books. The highlight is how often the high school Islamic education teachers go to bookstores in the last year. Based on the available data, the following results are obtained; There are only 8 people who almost every month go to the bookstore, although to the bookstore is not always synonymous with buying a book, at least it shows a strong desire from the 8 people to see the books published every month and add Their scientific knowledge of course. Only 2 people go to "once" bookstores over the past year.

5. Frequency to Library in the last year

In addition, another point of concern is how often the high school Islamic education teachers visited the library in the past year. From the available data, the following results were obtained: 10 teachers who almost visited each month to the Library, 23 people who visited several times, 2 visiting teachers and 1 teacher who had not visited the Library in the last year.

The presence of teacher of Islamic education in Senior high school who has never visited the library in the last year shows that this attitude is unexpected from an educator. As an educator, teacher should spend his time in the midst of busy teaching in the classroom, to visit the library. There are many things that cause the teacher to be bothered to go to the library such as the library in the school does not exist, and it can also be due to the lack of books in the library, or it could be because the books in the library is not so appealing to the teacher.

Of course this should be explored more deeply, what caused the teacher never visited the library. When viewed from the variety of enrichment literature that teachers use in teaching Islamic education at school, that teacher uses only 3 enrichment books only. Of course this becomes a separate record for the school to create a program for teachers to return to the library as a school literacy program that has been proclaimed by the Ministry of National Education.

The same thing is done by 2 high school Islamic education teachers, they only once a year visit and visit the library. This is very apprehensive for the world of education. A teacher who has to be a role model for his students gives an unfavorable example. There should be a movement for teachers, especially teachers of Islamic education in high school, to return to libraries in every school. Libraries should be the place where teachers seek knowledge. Lack of reference in the library can be done by requesting books to several agencies / government agencies such as the National Library of Indonesia which provides a diverse collection of books that are distributed for free.

Based on the results of a questionnaire that has been filled by teachers of Islamic education SMA Bogor City, obtained a description of 34 teachers of Islamic education SMA Bogor city, using materials or enrichment literature in teaching of Islamic education in each school. While 2 other high school Islamic education teachers did not use the enrichment materials or literature. They only use Islamic education packages of books published by MONE and a number of publishers. According to their information that the existing Islamic education package books are sufficiently representative in conveying and explaining the Islamic education materials so that no other ingredients are needed as the enrichment in teaching Islamic education at school. The Islamic education books used are published by several publishers, including: Ganesha, Grafindo and Erlangga. The variety of religious literature is based on the material in Islamic education lessons, as follows:
